

Hot Potato Pictures

Try this fun and completely safe take on Russian Roulette to get your group laughing.

To play the game have your group get into circles of about 10 people.

Set the timer on either a point and shoot camera or on your camera phone and start passing the camera around the circle. You can choose any amount of time. Try something long enough to create some tension, but not so long that your travelers get bored with the game.

As the camera is passed around each person must quickly point the camera at themselves and smile before passing it on to the next person. The camera will most likely not go off when they're smiling, ensuring a hilarious and probably terrible photo.

For added fun, play the game a couple of times and have the group vote on their favorite photo.

