The If Icebreaker Game

Instructions:

Write 20 "If" questions on cards ahead of time. When playing the game, figure out the route you would like the cards to travel in, whether it's on a motorcoach or at a welcome dinner.

Hand the stack of cards to the first person and have them read out the question and give their answer. Encourage participants to explain their answers for more insight into their personalities. After answering, they should then return the card to the bottom of the pile before the next person takes their card.

This icebreaker game encourages talking and listening for a fun way to introduce each other to the group.
